A Note on Using This Cookbook

The recipes in this cookbook are based on ingredients often found in emergency food pantries. They are designed to be flexible and can be adjusted based on your needs or the needs of your family. For example, you can add more ingredients to make more or use fewer ingredients to make less. You can also use various resources that you have on hand. For example, you can use fresh, frozen, or canned ingredients.

Many recipes listed here are vegetarian, but you can add canned or fresh meat to almost any recipe when it's available. If you do not have a specific spice/herb or ingredient, you can often leave it out or substitute something you have that might be similar and still come up with a tasty dish! For example, if you can't find a sweet potato, you can use a russet potato or butternut squash.

Why did we put this cookbook together?

There are six different kinds of nutrients that your body needs to be healthy, including carbohydrates, protein, fat, water, vitamins, and minerals. An easy way to think about healthy eating is to try to eat a variety of foods that have more dietary fiber, vitamins, and minerals, as well as trying to eat a variety of colors when you can. These recipes are designed to add more vegetables to your plate whenever possible! Another way to make a dish healthier is to decrease saturated fat, sodium (salt), and added sugars. Below are some tips to help make a recipe healthier whenever possible.

- Choose 100% whole wheat grains instead of white (tortillas, pasta, bread)
- Choose brown rice instead of white (instant or regular)

- Salt is also known as sodium. Choose low sodium canned goods or rinse regular canned goods under water before adding them to a dish
- Increase the flavor by adding more spices/herbs instead of salt
- Use a non-stick pan or cook with olive or canola oil instead of butter
- Add more vegetables whenever possible

4. Optional: Serve over rice.

4. In a large bowl, mix together the zucchini, corn, onion, cheese, egg, flour, and baking soda until well combined. Form the mixture into flattened patties about half the size of your palm.
5. Arrange the patties in a single layer on a greased baking sheet. Bake in the oven for about 10 minutes. Then, flip the patties and bake an additional 10 minutes until golden brown.
6. Optional: Serve with Greek Tzatziki Sauce
